State Legislative and Congressional District Boundaries to be Redrawn – Public Hearing August 3.

While the city of Glendale is working on new council district boundaries, the state of Arizona is determining new boundaries for the thirty state legislative districts and nine congressional districts.

The Statewide Independent Redistricting Commission (IRC) has notified the city that they will be holding a public hearing in Glendale on Wednesday, August 3.

This public hearing will be an important opportunity for the citizens of Glendale and the west valley to educate the Commission about their communities of interest and to express their opinion on how to draw boundaries that will best represent them and their respective communities.

The IRC is responsible for determining the new boundaries for state legislative and congressional districts. For more information on the IRC, visit their website at www.azredistricting.org/.

Glendale Makes Communicating Online Quick & Convenient. The city of Glendale makes customer service a top priority and encourages its residents to communicate questions, concerns, issues or even kudos as often and conveniently as possible. That's why the city uses the Ask Glendale function on the web.

Residents can communicate online at www.glendaleaz.com, through the 'Online Services' tab on the top bar of the homepage. The system generates a form that is distributed to dozens of city employees across several departments, ensuring that any questions, comments or concerns are addressed in a timely manner, and that the appropriate staff member(s) follow up. In addition, the City Manager's Office oversees the program for prompt response and staff in the mayor and council offices monitor the system regularly.

The city receives, on average, more than 700 requests for service each year. Each request is handled on a one-on-one basis, with the ultimate goal of resolution for the citizen, in as timely a manner as possible.

There are various other resources on Glendale's Web site that residents can use. For example issues such as abandoned vehicles and property maintenance complaints are handled by the Code Compliance Department. Complaints can be taken over the phone at 623-930-3610 or online at www.glendaleaz.com/codecompliance.

Public Safety welcomes feedback from residents online, as well. Both the police and fire departments have online tools for submitting questions, concerns or commendations for officers or firefighters. Residents can find forms at: www.glendaleaz.com/police or www.glendaleaz.com/fire.

Another great option for residents or visitors is "Ask Lorraine," in which Glendale's Convention and Visitor's Bureau Manager will answer anything and everything related to what to see and do, as well as great places to eat or where to shop in the city. So whether you're a Glendale resident or traveling here for a vacation Lorraine is a wealth of information on all things Glendale! "Ask Lorraine" can be found on the tourism site, www.visitglendale.com.
